

Biography

Jayne Sowers

Jayne Sowers is a senior consultant of technical assistance and a content specialist of English language learners at the Great Lakes East Comprehensive Center, which is operated by the American Institutes for Research. She has 15 years of experience in teaching English learners and training teachers for educating English learners. She lived and taught in Japan and Egypt and experienced the cultural difficulties that many English learners face in the U.S. She has authored a book with over 100 activities for teaching young children learning English and has provided training to the EL staff of state departments of education. Her most recent work included assisting a state department develop a crosswalk of its kindergarten English language proficiency standards and its Common Core State Standards. She holds a B.S. in speech pathology and audiology from Indiana State University, an M.S. in education of the hearing impaired from the University of Tennessee, and an Ed.D. in educational leadership: curriculum and instruction from Portland State University. She is certified in teaching English to speakers of other languages (TESOL) and is a nationally certified school and district review chair for AdvancED, a world-renowned accreditation, auditing and school improvement agency.