

Biography

Jesse Dixon

Jesse Dixon began his work with the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education in January 2009. He is now supporting work in the Department's Office of District and School Turnaround where he manages a range of projects to assist the Commonwealth's lowest performing schools. Prior to joining the Department, Jesse worked as a chief of staff to members of the New York City Council, New York State Legislature, and Massachusetts State House of Representatives. Jesse earned his bachelors' degree from Fordham University and a Masters in Education from the Harvard Graduate School of Education.